

LOUISE MUST PAY COST OF FLIGHT

Separated, But Not Divorced
From Prince.

PHILIP TO PAY ALLOWANCE

His Wife Had 195 Pairs of Shoes,
Sixty Parasols, and 100
Hats.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The petition for divorce from the Princess Louise, which was filed by Prince Philip of Coburg last July, is practically ended by an agreement between the lawyers, which is still to be ratified by the principals.

According to this agreement the parties are to be separated but not divorced.

The prince will continue the yearly allowance that he has been making, and he will also pay the princess 120,000 kronen under some suitable legal pretext.

The princess will pay the cost arising from her flight from Bad Elster in August, 1904, and all her own debts, since the prince will undertake the cost of the divorce proceedings.

Enormous Debts.

The prince's bill of complaint, besides alleging the princess' misconduct with the Austrian lieutenant, Kogelitch Mattasich, with whom she eloped, says that although the princess received 120,000 crowns per money yearly, she had contracted debts which, in 1895, amounted to 3,724,000 crowns, of which the prince had paid 1,000,000.

In her wardrobe were found seventy-five pairs of silk shoes, 120 pairs of other shoes, sixty parasols and about 100 hats. The Princess Louise, who is the daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, came into prominence some eight years ago, when her relations with Lieutenant Kogelitch Mattasich, then of the Austrian army, caused her husband and family to put her under close restraint at Bad Elster.

Pronounced Sane.

After her escape her relatives declared that she was insane, but Italian and French specialists pronounced her sane. Since then she has been living in Italy and France most of the time.

A beautiful girl, she was handed over to Prince Philip as dissolute, avaricious and brutal. She encountered Mattasich at Abazze and ran away with him. Deprived of means by her royal father and princely husband, knowing nothing of financial methods, she raised money by her note of hand. Her debts mounted rapidly; the crash came in 1895 when a financier caused Count Mattasich's arrest for forgery.

The money lender noticed that the signature of Princess Stephanie, Louise's sister, on a photograph differed from that indorsing Princess Louise's note.

Kept in Sanatorium.

Mattasich remained silent and asked that Princess Louise be called as a witness at his trial. But she was imprisoned in a sanatorium. Mattasich, who has since protested that the charge of forgery was trumped up against him, was sent to prison.

After the birth of her son in the Rudolstadt sanatorium in 1899 the princess was removed to Dr. Pierson's Asylum, near Dresden, where she passed five weary years.

In August 1901 Dr. Pierson took her to Bad Elster, a little watering place in Saxony, where she was actually prisoner. The devoted Mattasich, having been released from prison, rescued, and "abducted" her.

Friends in Paris.

A medical commission in Paris in May last declared the princess to be sane, and two days later it was announced that Prince Philip would begin proceedings for divorce, which, should he win, would relieve him from paying the princess the yearly allowance upon which she had been living in Paris.

Extravagance has often been quoted against Princess Louise, but she knew nothing of the value of money. She said:

"Everything was brought to me, and when I refused to take more than those in my service retained them."

Fabulous prices were charged her.

Kaiser Gets All Credit
For Prompt Compromise

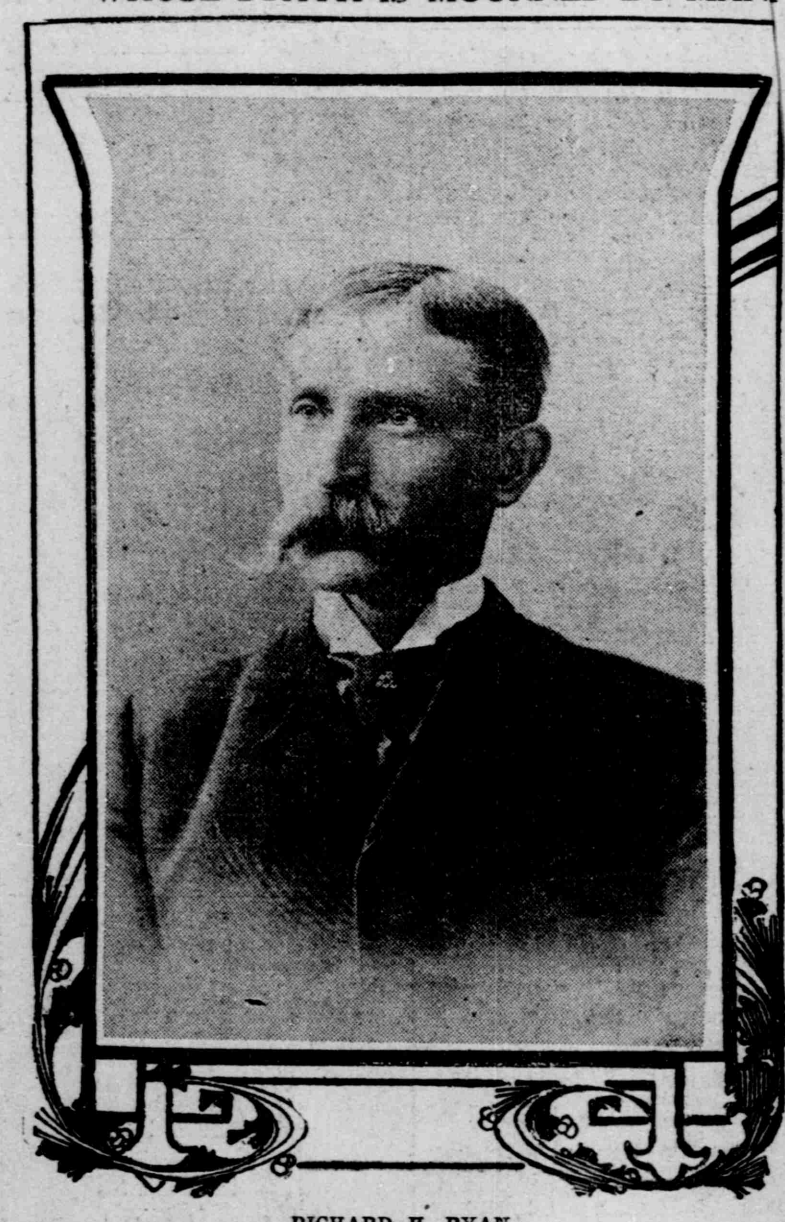

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—It is said here that the unexpected ending of Prince Philip of Coburg's suit for divorce is due to the personal influence of the Kaiser, who ordered the prince to give in as far as he possibly could so as to avoid an exposure of court scandals which would involve members of almost every royal family in Europe.

The prince at first tried to disobey, but when he saw that the lawyers of his wife intended to call as witnesses several crowned heads, he relented.

According to a dispatch from Budapest, Prince Philip, who owns large estates in Hungary, has ordered his manager not to pay any taxes to the crown until the present crisis is over.

This order has caused consternation at Vienna and great joy in the ranks of the Hungarian opposition where it had been expected that the prince would join the number of those who protest against the present cabinet.

WOMAN SAYS, "EXCUSE ME," KILLS HERSELF

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—While her boarders were at dinner today Mrs. Caroline Buehler, of St. George, S. I., excused herself, and going to her room, shot herself dead.

When Mrs. Buehler left the table her daughter Maud followed and asked her if she was ill. Mrs. Buehler replied that she was tired of life and was going to kill herself, and the girl, thinking that her mother was jesting, returned to the dining room.

MASONS WILL MARCH TO GRAVE WITH RYAN

Popular Sportsman and Famous Cabinetmaker Will Be Laid to Rest in Oak Hill at 11 o'clock
Tomorrow Morning.

The funeral of Richard Ryan, master cabinetmaker in the Smithsonian Institution, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from the chapel in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The services will be under the auspices of the Masons. Mr. Ryan was a member of St. John's Lodge, No. 11. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mr. Ryan died on Sunday morning in the Homeopathic Hospital after a long illness of Bright's disease. Although he had recently taken a trip to Atlantic City with the hope of benefiting his health, he failed to improve, and his death resulted.

Talent Won Fame.
Mr. Ryan was well known outside the Smithsonian, where he had been employed for years. Many of the attractive show cabinets which line the corridors of the building are the result of his workmanship and his talent in this particular craft won him distinction. He was an athletic enthusiast and a member of many clubs.

Few men found more friends among his fellow-workmen than "Dick" Ryan, whose genial disposition and friendly spirit endeared him wherever he went. From the time Mr. Ryan came to Washington many years ago until the day of his death, he kept around him a circle of friends who were ever ready to join with him in the sports he loved.

As a Sportsman.
He was a charter member of the old Columbia Athletic Club and was conspicuously identified with its athletic events. He took a prominent part in its regattas and was keenly interested in other sports.

When he first came to Washington Mr. Ryan was in business for himself, but the Government made him a tempting offer and he gave up his establishment.

Burson stockings

Made without seams to hurt the feet
Good in other ways. Low priced, too

It's no wonder women are eager to buy

Come in and learn of them tomorrow from factory attaches who know all the good points of these and all other makes. The seams in the foot of the ordinary stocking very often cause corns—BURSON stockings are perfectly smooth on the inside—nothing to hurt the feet. They are knitted to fit the foot and the leg. They will keep their shape. They are made on machinery controlled by the Burson people and are considerably better in quality than other cotton stockings at the same price. Come and see these before Saturday. That's to be Doll's Day and there will be many other things of interest. You'll be glad to buy stockings like these—always keep their shape and fit—no seams to hurt the feet.

They'll also tell you about how to get
